Food processing and manufacturing businesses understand the critical importance of sanitation and janitorial services. Their operations, as well as the health and safety of their consumers, hinge on maintaining impeccable standards.

That's precisely why numerous food processors and manufacturers have chosen to partner with Allegiance Industries over the years to fulfill stringent cleaning and sanitation requirements.

In fact, we're often the initial point of contact for companies facing potential shutdowns due to USDA compliance findings. The ramifications of inadequate or inconsistent processes for implementing, documenting, and maintaining sanitation levels in food processing plants can be catastrophic. Allegiance Industries stands ready to ensure the highest standards are upheld, safeguarding both businesses and consumer well-being.

SANITATION AND COMPLIANCE EXCELLENCE FOR A GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP

At Allegiance Industries, we understand the gravity of our role. For over three decades, we've been the trusted partner for managers in the food processing and manufacturing industry, providing them the peace of mind they need. Our processes are meticulously crafted to ensure the utmost consistency, reliability, and compliance with sanitation practices.

With decades of collective experience, our team specializes in working alongside food processors and manufacturers to achieve the following:

- Mitigation of cross-contamination risks
- Proper segregation of front-end and back-end processes
- Adherence to stringent PPE usage and meticulously crafted exit/entry procedures
- Thorough and accurate swabbing, documentation, and validation processes
- Rigorous protocols for equipment sanitation and LOTO (lockout/tagout) procedures
- Extensive expertise in navigating complex food-industry compliance standards
- Ongoing on-site supervision and meticulous documentation

At Allegiance Industries, we're dedicated to ensuring that every aspect of your sanitation processes meets and exceeds industry standards, allowing you to rest easy knowing that your operations are in capable hands.

SECURITY & ELECTRICAL SERVICES

Food industry managers can rest assured knowing that the same exceptional professionalism we deliver for their sanitation needs extends seamlessly to our security guard and electrical contracting services.
